Writing Category:
Write a feature story about an aspect of the ILPC Convention. You can feature one particular speaker, one particular student, or you can feature a broader aspect of the convention — the vendors, what professionals are saying about new media, the importance of the convention to students/advisers, etc. It should follow journalistic style, liberally using direct quotes.

Video Category:
Produce a feature story about an aspect of the ILPC Convention. You can feature one particular speaker, one particular student or you can feature a broader aspect of the convention — the vendors, what professionals are saying about new media, the importance of the convention to students/advisers, etc. The video story can not be longer than two minutes. Students can work in teams of two, if they choose for this contest.

Photography Category:
Shoot a photo story of the ILPC Convention. You can feature one particular speaker, one particular student or you can feature a broader aspect of the convention — the vendors, the importance to students/advisers, etc. You will need to submit three to five photos illustrating your story. The photos must have complete captions.

Rules
1. Each student (or team of two for video) may submit one entry.
2. Entry fee is $5 per entry. The entry fee must be paid ON-SITE at the registration table before 11 a.m. Sunday, April 29. Do NOT send the entry fee with your payment for the convention.
3. Entries not submitted at the convention must be postmarked, emailed or uploaded on Monday, April 30. Winners will be announced via the UIL website (uiltexas.org/journalism) the following week. Winning entries will be posted to the UIL website.
