ILPC Spring Convention On-Site Contest

Writing Category:

Write a feature story about an aspect of the ILPC Convention. You can feature one particular speaker, one particular student, or you can feature a broader aspect of the convention — the vendors, what professionals are saying about new media, the importance of the convention to students/advisers, etc. It should follow journalistic style, liberally using direct quotes.

Video Category:

Produce a feature story about an aspect of the ILPC Convention. You can feature one particular speaker, one particular student or you can feature a broader aspect of the convention — the vendors, what professionals are saying about new media, the importance of the convention to students/advisers, etc. The video story can not be longer than two minutes. Students can work in teams of two, if they choose for this contest.

Photography Category:

Shoot a photo story of the ILPC Convention. You can feature one particular speaker, one particular student or you can feature a broader aspect of the convention — the vendors, the importance to students/advisers, etc. You will need to submit three to five photos illustrating your story.
