

A wide-angle photograph of the Hoover Dam and Lake Mead. In the foreground, two large, cylindrical concrete water intake towers stand prominently, connected by a horizontal structure. The towers have multiple levels of windows and are situated in the turquoise water of the lake. In the background, the massive concrete dam stretches across the frame, with steep, rocky cliffs rising on either side. The sky is a clear, deep blue. The overall scene is a mix of natural ruggedness and human engineering.

LAKE MEAD AND HOOVER DAM WATER INTAKE TOWERS.

FROM KALI GUINN, FLORIDA ELEMENTARY TEACHER

It is more important than ever for our students to learn to listen to various viewpoints, synthesize information, and form their own opinions. It's also important that they begin to see themselves as actors of change from a young age. Implementing current events in the classroom is a strategy that will keep students aware of real-world problems and situations.

Americans prefer Miley to Syria stories by huge number

Maria Puente, USA TODAY

Published 5:35 p.m. ET Sept. 8, 2013 | Updated 5:46 p.m. ET Sept. 9, 2013

Americans would rather read about the latest transgressions by Miley Cyrus than the latest horrors in Syria. Are we surprised?

You probably already sensed that media coverage of Miley Cyrus' shenanigans would be more popular with Americans than stories about mass murder in Syria and the possible U.S. intervention there.

But someone has actually calculated exactly how much more popular Miley is than Syria: 12 times more popular. It's another one of those signs that suggests...well, something about the state of our culture.

A new survey by Outbrain, a leading "content discovery platform" on the Web, tracked traffic data from its network of 100,000 publishers and major news organizations and found that Americans viewed 12 times as many pages about Miley-the-twerker as they did about Syria-the-damned. New York magazine's popular fashion blog, The Cut, summed it up.

STORY HIGHLIGHTS

- What does this say about American culture and media?
- Is a twerking twentysomething more interesting than bombing Syria?

The disparity is in spite of the fact that hundreds of Syrians, including more than 400 kids, were recently passed to death, apparently by their own government, and despite the fact that more than twice as many news stories about Syria have been published for every one about Miley in recent days.

Puerto Rico Swears In A Governor Inherits Multiple Crises

Pedro Pierluisi was sworn in as Puerto Rico's 12th elected governor, promising to turn the page on years of social and political turmoil and to restore trust in a government whose credibility was damaged by its response to a string of recent crises.

Speaking from the steps of the island's Capitol, the new governor addressed a crowd of a few hundred invited guests who wore face coverings and were spaced out as a precaution against the coronavirus.

Pierluisi, 61, was previously the island's attorney general and a delegate to the U.S. Congress. His swearing-in on Saturday follows his previous attempts to claim the governorship, first in 2016, when he was defeated by then-governor Ricardo Rosselló.

FEEDBACK

What disturbed me most in CI&E is that there was a lot of parody among the competitor's scores before the essay was judged. This overweights the importance of the essay at state. I would suggest that the way to make the test less subjective at region and state is to make it harder. The way to fix the problem is to add more questions at regional and even more at state. Say, an increase of five or even better 10 at each level should do it.

THE ESSAY

The essay matters.

THE ESSAY

The U.S. economy, the world's third-largest economy, is strong. The Gross Domestic Product is growing at about 2.6 percent per year. Unemployment was only 3.8 percent in February. Inflation is only 2.2 percent. While the national debt is about $22 trillion, 113 percent of GDP, most economists say that is only unhealthy for short periods.

Not all other countries have economies that are that healthy.

Pick three other countries – not the United States – and discuss economic problems they have been having so far this academic year and the sociopolitical situations surrounding them.

THE ESSAY

As Robert Glazer said in an April 1, 2020 Forbes article, "With little warning, COVID-19 is changing everything about our lives – changes that are universal across generation. Although each generation will be affected differently, all will be forced to acclimate to a new normal."

And a Pew Research poll released March 30, 2020 showed that nearly 44% of U.S. adults say their life has changed in a major way.

COVID-19 has changed our way of life. First, discuss how the novel coronavirus has changed the way we work, play and learn. Second, include some of the major individuals and companies involved in this new, but temporary, normal. Finally, what steps do officials say will be required to get us back to work, play and school?

APRIL LEAVENWORTH

"Sometimes when we see what's going on in the world around us, it can change our entire perspective on life. We might want to start volunteering with Habitat for Humanity, or with an animal rescue group. Knowing how and why our world is functioning the way it is RIGHT NOW makes us a lot more knowledgeable about how we might be able to change it for the future."
