Homecoming

Homecoming King and senior Seth Miller is a squinter. He never really liked bright lights, so at the first annual homecoming dance on Oct. 19 the rave-type atmosphere of the dance floor filled with bright and colored lights wasn't really Miller's scene.

Inspired by his girlfriend, senior Kamryn Hannigan, Miller ran for homecoming court to see what would happen.

He won. So did she.

"Everywhere I went people would congratulate me for running in the first place and tell me they voted for me," Miller said. "Which is super nice of them but it kind of got me freaked out because I was like shoot I might actually win this."

When Student Council committed to organizing the first homecoming dance, they planned to have a spotlight dance for the newly crowned king, queen and the rest of the court. At the dance, the D.J. didn't want to take a break from the hype to slow things down for the dance.

The people who knew the couple the best were disappointed they didn't get to dance, so senior Megan Novak suggested they do it with their flashlights in the parking lot instead.

"They were supposed to have the spotlight dance at the homecoming dance," Novak said. "I thought [doing the dance anyway] would be fun. I just thought it would be something to remember."

Can you describe your involvement in STEM?

I've been in STEM classes since my freshman year, so I've been in the required ones—honors biology, honors chemistry—and then I also took part in the Project Lead The Way courses... Something I really loved about all of the PLTW courses is, they had a lot of emphasis on the different careers in science, which I think is something that we miss a lot of in our required science curriculums.

A lot of times, students who could have been really amazing science students don't end up taking that route in college and beyond because they just don't know about all the options for them. That's kind of the reason we're seeing this, in the United States; there's so many science careers that are going unfilled. I think that's one of the issues: we're not doing enough to teach kids about the different opportunities available to them in the science field.

Quartz publication, an international news organization, in the last couple of years, sightings of teenagers doing potentially illegal activities for someone they meet online have occurred more often. 72% of these incidents took place at either the home of the victim or the perpetrator. In the United States, the total number of assaults is decreasing, yet online assaults are increasing.

What's worse is that the negative experiences of online dating create permanent markings in the psychological mindset. According to Pletcher, the opportunity of rejection is so much greater. Because every swipe is a choice, there exist more rejections because of sheer numbers and statistics. Overall, countless rejection can tear down your mindset, lowering your self-esteem and confidence.

"When you hang out with a group of friends, you are looking at meeting ten people when you go out for an event. You may meet one person out of that ten that you strike up conversation with and have an interest in," Pletcher said.

"When you're swiping people in an app, you could have hundreds. The chance of rejection is so much greater, so for a person who doesn't have success, they are just going to have rejection after rejection, which can destroy them."

A poll conducted by CNN in 2017 shows that online dating lowers self-esteem and increases the likelihood of depression. Because of the massive national Posters waving in the air. Sirens sounding throughout Nash neighborhoods. Smiling children are finally able to see their teachers in person. On April 15, 2020, Nash Elementary School held a drive by parade within their town in order to reach students outside of the classroom— from a safe distance.

“We got the idea for a drive through parade from Facebook and from the news. We want to show the Nash students how much we love and miss them,” second grade Nash teacher Lisa Fuller said. “We’ve been having a lot of [zoom meetings] and Google Meets. We wanted to find a way to bring our community together and bring our kids out to see the teachers.”

Teachers aren’t the only ones going through changes due to the pandemic, children are also finding themselves having to adjust to school life from home. For many students, this was the first time they got to see their teachers in person for over four weeks.

Assad Malik and Allyson Smith

“I really liked the parade because the coronavirus makes it where we can’t be around each other and it was actually a good way to see my teachers.”

“I miss my teachers and my friends a lot. My favorite part was being able to see all of the teachers and their decorated cars,” third grader Hannah Hamel said. “I didn’t make a poster because I didn’t have the supplies, so I got creative and held up a heart mirror.”

Teachers from Nash elementary gathered in the school parking lot before their drive through parade. From homemade posters, painted cars, pets, fun costumes and an excited staff, Nash couldn’t be more prepared to see their students

RISE OF AFRICAN AMERICAN POLITICAL INFLUENCE

African Americans sought freedom in all aspects of life. Black authors, speakers and activists broke the law and defied the status quo for an equal chance to pave the way for future black leaders like Junior Sarah Akande.

"From my sophomore year, I noticed only a few African Americans in Student Council and my main purpose to join was to increase diversity in all aspects and make others feel welcome," Sarah Akande, Student Body Secretary said.

POLITICAL TIMELINE

- 1863 - Emancipation Proclamation.
- 1870 - Hiram Rhodes Revels served as the first black member of the Senate.
- 1896 - Plessy vs. Ferguson case which provided full and equal citizenship to African Americans.
- 1909 - The NAACP Founded by a group of African Americans.
- 1954 - Brown vs. The Board of Education declared segregation in schools unconstitutional.
- 1963 - Martin Luther King Jr.'s "I Have A Dream" speech.
- 2001 - Colin Powell becomes the first African American U.S. Secretary of State.
- 2008 - Barack Obama becomes the first African American president.

Spotlight

Shirley Chisholm served as the first African American woman in Congress in 1968. In 1972, Chisholm also became the first African American to seek a presidential nomination. She then spent seven terms in the U.S. House of Representatives, where she fought for racial equality laws.

BREAKING

Bad Eating Habits

a helpful guide to more nutritional behaviors

HABIT #1

Mindless Eating

Continuing to eat even though you know you're full? Can't put down that bag of chips while watching TV?

The Fix

Eat from smaller dishes. Swap out a dinner plate for a salad plate. Never eat straight from the container!

HABIT #2

Nighttime Munching

Often find yourself heading for the fridge well after the sun goes down? Eating before bed can greatly impair weight loss.

The Fix

After dinner, teach yourself to think of the kitchen as being closed for the night, and brush your teeth — you'll want to eat less with a newly cleaned mouth.

HABIT #3

Skipping Breakfast

You're in a rush trying to get out the door so you head through the drive-thru at the coffee shop for your liquid breakfast or skip it all together.

The Fix

Have ready healthy breakfast foods you can consume on the run such as whole fruit, yogurt, homemade cereal bars, and smoothies.

HOW TO CARE FOR EVERY FABRIC IN YOUR CLOSET

NATURAL FABRICS

WASHING IRONING

CHARACTERISTICS

CARE INSTRUCTIONS

COTTON

- Cool, soft, and comfortable
- Absorbs and releases perspiration quickly
- Durable
- Wrinkles easily

Machine washable

Use warm water

On high temperature

DENIM

- Made from tightly woven cotton
- Breathable
- Absorbent like cotton, but heavier and more durable

Machine washable

To keep color from fading, turn inside out before washing

Use warm water

On high temperature

FLANNEL

- Not a fabric but a structure of fabric
- Made from cotton or wool
- Soft
- Thicker and more insulated
- Absorbs and releases perspiration quickly
- Durable

Follow care instructions for cotton or wool

Cotton Washing

Preferably dry clean only

Some washable wools exist

Does not need cleaning after every wear

Machine Use warm water

Follow care instructions for cotton or wool

Cotton Ironing

Turn fabric inside out to avoid iron marks and shine

On high temperature

Use low heat and steam

PANDEMIC PANIC

With the recent emergence of the Coronavirus pandemic, learn about how pandemics work and how societies can work together to stop their spread

GRAY MARTENS, ROBBIE GE. GRAPHIC CDC.GOV, HISTORY.COM, LIVESCIENCE SOURCE

TYPES OF INFECTIONS

VIRUSES

- 1 Viruses bind to receptors on a host cell membrane and enter the cell
- 2 The virus hijacks the cell to produce copies of itself, interfering with cell function
- 3 These copies move out of the cell and go on to infect more cells in the area

BACTERIA

- 1 Bacteria are introduced to the host's body and start to form a colony
- 2 Bacteria multiply exponentially through binary fission, making two clones of the same cell
- 3 Bacteria can crowd out normal cells, or emit toxins that interfere with cell function and kill tissues

HOW INFECTIONS SPREAD

Human

People can carry diseases with or without symptoms, and spread them to others

Environmental

Many viruses and bacteria can live in plants or soil

Animal

Animals can carry many diseases whose effects may differ from species to species

RESERVOIRS

Vehicle-borne
Transfer of pathogens from an inanimate object to a host

Vector-borne
Transfer of pathogens from another organism to a host

Direct Contact
Direct contact of host and pathogens causes infection

Airborne
Pathogens are carried via dust or droplets in the air

TRANSMISSION

The pathogen enters the body and reproduces itself

INFECTION

EPIDEMIC CURVES

Pandemic Outbreak:

The number of cases grows exponentially after the first case

Pandemic Decline:

As the number of cases grows, there are fewer new hosts and cases drop

Health Care Capacity:

The health care system becomes unable to keep up with the number of new cases

No Social Distancing:

More cases and deaths

With Social Distancing:

Less cases and deaths

STOPPING THE SPREAD

Government:

- Enact legislation to assist pandemic response and prevention
- Guide the allocation of resources
- Assist other countries affected by the pandemic

Health Sector:

- Give reliable information on the risk, severity, and progression of a pandemic
- Continue giving healthcare
- Protect healthcare workers and adapt to conditions

Communities and Individuals:

- Ensure access to food, water, medicine, and accurate information on the pandemic
- Maintain hygiene and cover coughs, sneezes
- Provide services and support households in need of assistance

A HISTORY OF PANDEMICS

430 B.C.E

Plague of Athens

Suspected to be Typhoid fever, killed 2/3 of the population of Athens and ended the Greek Golden Age

165

Antonine Plague

Suspected to be smallpox, it killed thousands of Romans including an emperor, and led to the decline of Rome

1350

The Black Death

The bubonic plague killed as much as 1/3 of the population of Europe and led to the eventual collapse of European feudal society

1492

Columbian Exchange

Diseases spread by European explorers in the Americas resulted in the death of most of the native population and the conquest of the continent by Europeans

1918

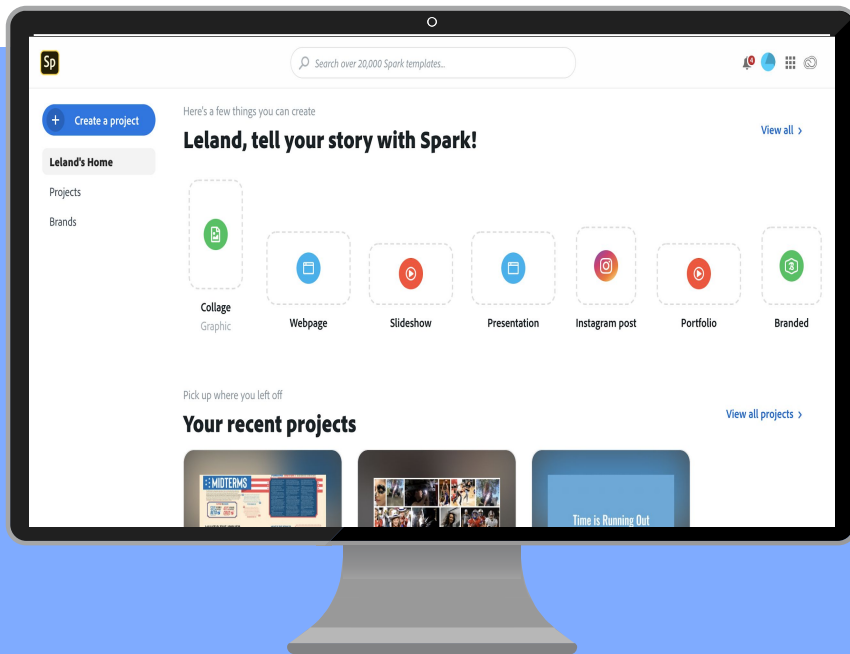

Spanish Flu

The Spanish flu spread worldwide after the end of WWI, and brought infectious diseases into the minds of the public

AIDS

An autoimmune STD, AIDS spread around the world and was first observed in America in 1981. Since then it has killed 32 million people and there is no known cure

Storytelling Tools

We build easy-to-use tools that can help you tell better stories.

We're probably best known for our innovative suite of open-source, adaptable, and lightweight tools for media makers. The most popular, TimelineJS, has been used by more than 250,000 people to tell stories seen hundreds of millions of times, and is available in more than sixty languages. We also develop prototypes of tools for reporting, data management, research, and storytelling, often in connection with Northwestern classes. Students from our community have gone on to work at the New York Times, Vox Media, NPR, Medium, FiveThirtyEight, the Washington Post, the Los Angeles Times, Huffington Post, and more.

When viruses go viral

April 20, 2020

Story by Stephanie Jumper, staff writer

Restaurants are closing. Stores are shutting down. The closest we can see our friends is through a laggy computer screen on late night FaceTimes. All thanks to a disease from across the world called coronavirus. TexasKana is in a shelter-in-place. This order forces us to spend as much time at home as possible. However, there is one thing far less harmful than the virus spreading through the nation. Quarantine related Instagram trends are popping up all along the platform, helping us stick together through an unfortunate situation. #UntilTomorrow You may have scrolled through your feed recently...
