AP students discuss ways to benefit environment during annual expo

Students in AP Environmental Science hosted the Third Annual Environmental Expo March 19. The event was a collaboration of local companies with initiatives to help the environment and students to inform the community about eco-friendly businesses and allow students to practice giving professional presentations.

"I thought it was a really good way to learn about what businesses in the Texarkana area do to sustain the environment while also teaching us how to have professional relationships," senior Lauren Gibbert said. "It was a great experience, and it turned out very well."
