EXPLANATION OF NOTATIONS

Since 1995, UIL state and conference marks have been FAT (Fully Automatic Times), recorded to two decimal places for events measured in meters (e.g., Steve Magness' 1600 meters state record of 4:03.27). In order to compare current FAT metric times with earlier marks for events measured in yards and/or with metric marks hand-timed to one decimal place, conversions have been made.

Record times marked by the pound key (#) indicate that the time recorded in yards before 1978 was converted to a hand-timed metric equivalent. For example, Robert Gonzalez' 1967 state record of 4:07.4 for the mile was converted to a (hand timed) metric equivalent of 4:06.0#.

The asterisk () notation indicates that the metric time was converted to a FAT time to two decimal places. Gonzalez' current" mark of 4:06.14# is thus a conversion from the mile to 1600 meters and from the hand-timed one decimal metric mark to the FAT metric mark with two decimals.

Thus Gonzalez' 1967 mile mark after two conversions (4:06.14#*) is directly comparable to Magness' 2003 metric mile FAT mark. The conversion from yards to meters utilized standard conversion factors by multiplying the "yard time" by 1.0025 for 120-yards to 110 meters. The conversion factor for 220-yards to 200-meters, 330-yards to 300-meters, 440-yards to 400-meters, 880-yards to 800-meters and one mile to 1600-meters is .9942.

The conversion from hand-timed metric times to FAT equivalents was accomplished by adding .24 to each hand time for events 200 meters and shorter and .14 for events from 300 meters to 1,600 meters. The 100 yard dash times before 1980 were not converted, as the 100-meter dash after 1980 was treated as a new event with all record times beginning in 1980.

The national records are from the National High School Sports Record Book published by the National Federation of State High School Associations.

HOW DOES WIND AFFECT NATIONAL & STATE RECORDS

Official acceptance of a NFHS or Texas state record recorded in the long jump, triple jump or in any race that is not run around the complete oval of the track (100-meter, 200-meter and hurdles) requires that a reliable wind gauge recorded that any assisting wind did not exceed an average velocity of 2 meters per second (4.474 mph). An assisting wind is one that blows at a runner's back, either directly or in a slanting direction. A wind-aided distance or time may not count toward a national or Texas state record.
